DOCTOR WHO

Attack Of The Cybermen

(Series 6T)

The Cybermen have always been deadly foes of the Doctor. This adventure finds them locked in conflict with him once again, and making a desperate attempt to change the course of history.

MAURICE COLBOURNE as Lytton with two Cybermen

Commander Lytton, an alien soldier, is trapped on Earth after a previous encounter with the Doctor. To survive, he appears to have turned to crime, with the help of Griffiths, Payne and an undercover policeman called Russell.

The Doctor picks up an inter-galactic distress-call from Earth and goes to investigate. He finds Lytton's hide-out, and discovers that Lytton has entered the London sewers to rob a diamond merchant.

The Doctor follows, and so discovers Lytton's true intention: he has met an advance guard of Cybermen who are preparing to invade Earth. Captured by the Cybermen, the Doctor and Peri are forced to take the Cybermen, Lytton and Griffiths in the TARDIS to the Cybermen's planet, Telos.

COLIN BAKER as The Doctor and NICOLA BRYANT as Peri

On arrival, they find that most of the Cybermen on Telos have been destroyed by a group of Cryons — the original inhabitants of the planet. Unable to resist the Cryons any longer, the Cybermen have decided to change the course of history, with the aid of a stolen time vessel and the Doctor's TARDIS, and so avert their final defeat and destruction.

The Cybermen had originally attacked Earth in 1986, and been defeated. During this attack their 'own' planet, Mondas, was destroyed. The surviving Cybermen were forced to look for a new planet, and settled on Telos, the Cryons' planet. Although they were overcome and mostly destroyed by the Cybermen, enough of the Cryons survived to form a resistance group. Over the years they have slowly fought back, whittling away the Cyberman force, although always lacking sufficient numbers for an all-out attack.

Now, however, the Cryons are on the brink of final victory. To preserve their race, the Cybermen have devised a plan to change history, and turn their 1986 defeat against Earth into victory. Their intention is to force Halley's comet to crash into Earth, so that when the 'historical' attack of the Cybermen takes place, Earth will be too weak to resist. The Cybermen will win, and hence survive. The Doctor is confronted with the daunting task of preventing this ingenious and wicked plan from reaching fulfilment.

DOCTOR WHO

Vengeance On Varos

(Series 6V)

On Varos the Doctor learns that video games are not always fun...

Etta and Arak sit in their cell watching 'video nasties' — these are images created to take their minds off the agony of their existence in the Zeiton 7 mines on the planet Varos. Even though they are slaves, a pretend form of democracy exists on the planet in that they are able to execute their Governor by 'voting' him to death, should he fail to live up to their expectations of his promises. Needless to say, the Governor often dies. Like the 'nasties', the 'voting' is simply a diversion to keep the population of Varos under control.

Meanwhile Sil, with the aid of the Chief Officer, is attempting to take control of the market in Zeiton 7 ore, a rare mineral which is found only on Varos. Into this situation of chaos and conspiracy stumble the Doctor and Peri, who unfortunately spoil the making of a 'nasty' — the death of Jondar. With the help of Areta, Jondar's girl-friend, they escape from the prison area, only to be pursued and captured by Maldak and his guard.

As the Doctor has ruined an 'entertainment', he is sentenced to 'star' in the next one himself. Meanwhile Peri and Areta are to become the subject of an experiment in molecular engineering. They are to be reconstructed and turned into grotesque creatures — and thereby become stars of their own 'nasty'.

But rebellion is in the air. And with the aid of the Doctor and the present Governor, the plans of Sil and the Chief Officer are overthrown, and the evil system on Varos is destroyed.

DOCTOR WHO

The Mark Of The Rani

(Series 6X)

Attracted by time turbulence, the Doctor and Peri arrive on Earth in the early 19th Century, and discover a small mining community in turmoil. At first it seems that a group of machine-wrecking Luddites have taken over the area. However, Lord Ravensworth, the owner of the local mine, believes something far more evil is at work.

The Doctor investigates, and finally discovers that the Rani is at the root of the trouble. She is a renegade Time Lady, who has taken over the local bath-house, and is draining the brains of the miners of the chemical that induces natural sleep. She is doing this because there is a desperate need for the drug on her planet — without it the people will die. But after having the chemical extracted from their brains, the miners are left with a red mark on their necks — the mark of the Rani — and become violent and dangerous.

The Doctor's task of trying to sort out this situation is made more difficult by the presence of the Master. Forever out to cause trouble, he attempts to humiliate and then kill the Doctor. At the same time he is also seeking to retard the historical development of Earth by destroying the minds of a large number of eminent scientists, including the famous locomotive engineer, George Stephenson.

All the Doctor's ingenuity is called into play to resist his twin adversaries. But happily he manages to resolve the situation, and sends the Master and the Rani spinning into time and space trapped in her disabled TARDIS.

DOCTOR WHO

The Two Doctors

(Series 6W)

In this adventure, Patrick Troughton makes a special guest appearance as the Doctor in one of his earlier incarnations. He is joined by former companion Jamie McCrimmon (played by Frazer Hines). But even two Doctors and their assistants find they have their work cut out to prevent Dastari's illegal experiments from reaching fruition.

CLINTON GREYN as Stike (a Sontaran)

The Time Lords of Gallifrey are concerned by the experiments in time being conducted by Dastari and Chessene, so they send the Doctor (in his earlier regenerated form of Patrick Troughton) and Jamie to investigate. On their arrival at Dastari's space station, a force of Sontarans attack, and all but Jamie appear to be killed.

The instant this happens, the present Doctor (played by Colin Baker) 'feels' the supposed death of his earlier form, although at the same time he knows that he cannot die in one form without it affecting his current self. The Doctor therefore concludes that his earlier self must have been taken out of time. With Peri in tow, he goes off to investigate.

PATRICK TROUGHTON as The Doctor

FRAZER HINES as Jamie, NICOLA BRYANT as Peri and COLIN BAKER as The Doctor

Meanwhile Dastari, Chessene and her 'flesh-obsessed' Androgum chef, Shockeye, have abandoned the space station and taken over a house outside Seville in Spain. There they continue their experiments in time — using the knowledge of the Doctor (in his Troughton form), and assisted by two Sontarans, Stike and Varl.

On the space station, the present Doctor finds Jamie and then makes his way to Spain to save his earlier self. On arrival, he meets a moth-obsessed expatriate restaurant owner by the name of Oscar Botcherby. Oscar has been hunting moths with his friend, Anita, near a run-down country house. He has become concerned by the activities inside the house, and tells the Doctor, who goes off to investigate.

Chessene decides to make a companion for herself — someone who will complement her vast intelligence. Like Shockeye, she is an Androgum, and she decides to alter genetically the (Troughton) Doctor. Unfortunately, things do not go as intended, and, much to Shockeye's delight, the Doctor turns into a flesh-obsessed Androgum like himself. Such is the power of the Doctor's new-found desire for meat that he takes Shockeye in search of the best restaurant in Seville, which turns out to be the one owned by Oscar. But, after they have gorged themselves, the problem of payment arises, for neither of them has money acceptable on Earth. A fight breaks out, and Shockeye kills Oscar.

Ultimately Dastari's experiments in time fail — Stike, Varl and Chessene are destroyed attempting to use the time module they have built, but not before Chessene has killed Dastari in a fit of vengeance. Hungry for human flesh — in his eyes the ultimate feast — Shockeye is killed while hunting the present Doctor.

The status quo is finally restored, and the two Doctors are able to return to their separate periods of time.

DOCTOR WHO

Timelash

(Series 6Y)

A surprise guest from Earth on board the TARDIS is one of many unexpected twists in this story, which sees the Doctor return to Karfel, where the Borad rules, but all is far from well.

PAUL DARROW as Tekker and JEANANNE CROWLEY as Vena

COLIN BAKER as The Doctor

Caught in a time corridor emanating from the planet Karfel, the Doctor and Peri are forced to land. The Doctor has been to Karfel before, in a previous regeneration, and is surprised at the planet's advance in time technology. He is even more surprised when he meets Tekker, an oily, fawning individual, who seems totally unsuited to the office of Maylin, governor of the planet. But the Doctor learns that Karfel is really ruled by the Borad, and that Tekker is used as the supposedly acceptable face of his leadership.

Meanwhile Vena, a member of the planet's High Council, has fallen from grace. Before she can be executed, she steals a vital amulet from the Borad, and then throws herself into the time corridor. This takes her to Earth during the 19th Century, where she meets a young man called Herbert.

While this is happening, Peri is taken hostage by Tekker, who thereby forces the Doctor to go after Vena in his TARDIS and retrieve the amulet. While the Doctor is away, Tekker orders that Peri should be fed to the Morlox, a creature that inhabits the caves of Karfel.

Hearing of this, the Borad instructs that Peri should be brought to him. His intention, after a certain amount of genetic engineering, is to make her his bride.

When the Doctor returns with Vena and Herbert, he is forced into battle with the Borad. He learns that the Borad intends to destroy the people of Karfel and replace them with a mutated life form, based on the Morlox — such a mutation would produce highly intelligent and long-lived creatures.

Ultimately the Borad is defeated, order restored to Karfel, and the young Herbert returned to Earth. But in the TARDIS, the Doctor finds a calling-card dropped by his visitor. It reads: 'H.G. Wells' . . .

DOCTOR WHO

Revelation of the Daleks

(Series 6Z)

The Doctor confronts his oldest enemies, the Daleks, for the 14th time in this adventure, which features the return of Davros, and a star-filled cast that includes Eleanor Bron, Alexei Sayle, William Gaunt and Clive Swift.

The Doctor and Peri arrive on Necros to pay their final respects to Professor Arthur Stengos, an old friend of the Doctor. Necros has two industries: one is Tranquil Repose, a massive repository, where the cryogenically-preserved bodies of the dead from many galaxies are stored, while awaiting cures for the diseases that killed them. The other industry is located in two factories, which are devoted to the production of cheap, synthetic protein.

Unknown to the Doctor, Davros has taken over Tranquil Repose, and is using it as a cover to produce yet more Daleks. Although unable to stop Davros, the attendants at the repository — Jobel, Takis, Lilt and DJ — are unhappy with what is going on, and would like to see the back of him. Davros is fully aware of this, but as his work is almost complete, he is prepared to put up with their rebellious mutterings.

Always on the look-out for new material to turn into Daleks, Davros recruits Tasambeker, a passionate, but ignored, admirer of Jobel. Although interested in Davros's proposal, she is not happy that the recruitment is to be sealed in blood — Jobel's blood!

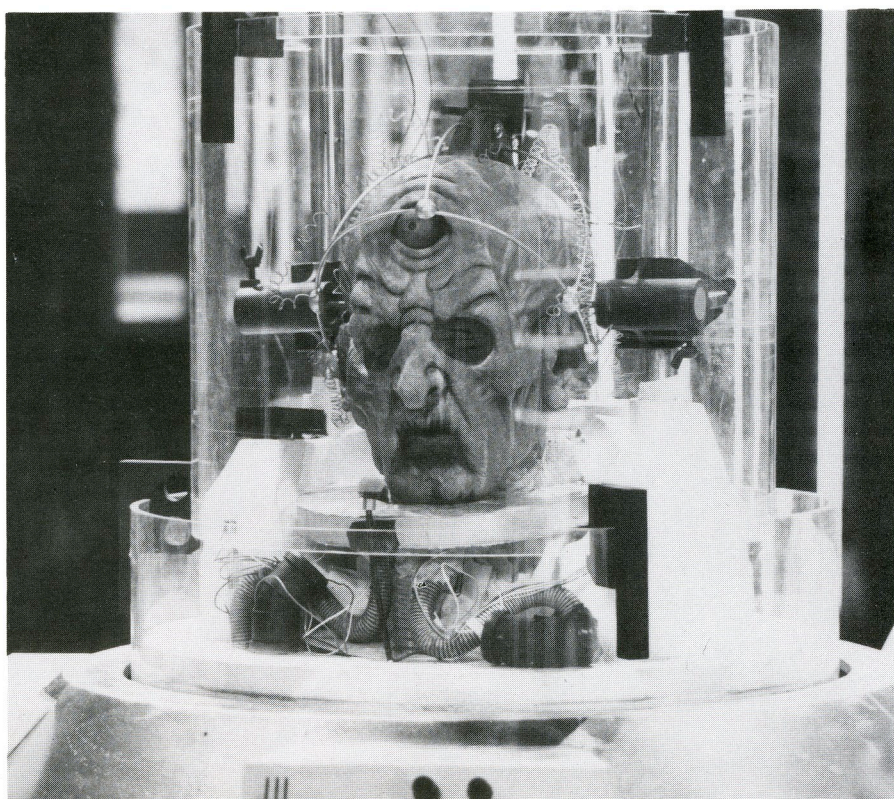

Meanwhile, Kara, who runs the protein production factories, and her secretary, Vogel, have decided to kill Davros, because he has taken what Kara considers to be her profits for his development work on the Daleks. She therefore employs Orcini and Bostock to dispose of him.

Just as the Doctor learns that all is not well at Tranquil Repose, he is captured and imprisoned with Natasha and Grigory, who have discovered that the dead — known as the 'Resting Ones' — have been removed from their cells.

COLIN BAKER as The Doctor

Davros, played by TERRY MOLLOY

On meeting Davros, the Doctor learns the reason why: to finance his Dalek project, Davros has turned most of the bodies into protein, and is selling it to the galaxy through Kara's factories.

Although Orcini is captured, he is still able ultimately to destroy the newly-created Daleks, who are being stored until they can be activated. Davros, meanwhile, is taken back to Skaro, the Dalek's planet, as a result of the action of Takis and Lilt. On arrival he is required to stand trial for crimes against his own creation.

With Tranquil Repose destroyed and Kara dead, the Doctor realizes that Necros — which relied on the supplies of protein from Kara's factories — will suffer badly now that its source of income has been cut off. Along the way, the Doctor has noticed a soya-bean type plant, and he suggests that the survivors on the planet continue to supply protein from a more agreeable source. As the reorganization gets under way, the Doctor and Peri decide to stay and help for a while.
